

Stolen Sisters: End the indifference, stop the violence

Dear Premier

Attacks on Indigenous women in Canadian cities have, for too long, been treated as isolated cases. Despite a growing number of incidents of missing and murdered Indigenous women, many of the critical preventive measures identified by past government commissions and inquiries have still not been implemented.

We, the undersigned, urge your government to work closely with Indigenous peoples' organizations, and Indigenous women in particular, to institute plans of action that include:

1. the development of appropriate and effective protocols for police response to missing person cases consistent with the specific risks to Indigenous women and girls.
2. clear instruction to police to ensure that the fundamental rights of women involved in the sex trade are protected in the course of all law enforcement activities.
3. adequate sustained, multi-year funding to culturally appropriate services, such as shelters and counselling for Indigenous women and girls, needed to prevent violence.
