

“We have to travel at least two kilometres to get clean water... My health is so bad that it prevents me from carrying the water I need from there” Hasina Bi explained last year.

For the last 18 years, she has been drinking the same water from the hand-pump near her house. Her health has deteriorated in the last year. She suffers from goitre, piles, chronic joint pain and upset stomach. She is so weak that many times she lacks the energy to stand in the long line to fight for her two buckets of water and ends up getting water from the contaminated pumps.
